Mike McLane (FWP) - City of Stevensville expanded their water supply by drilling a groundwater well to provide recharge. Unsure what challenges they faced. DNRC would know.

Ann Schwend (DNRC) - When she was a member of the Sheridan planning board, a subdivision outside of town on an irrigated bench developed with individual groundwater wells, instead of creating a public water supply system. DEQ requirements for sanitation required larger lots, but owners could only irrigate a small portion of their land.

Seth Makepeace (CSKT) - Tribe has sharing agreement with Ronan. Unsure what challenges that project faced or how state law could help overcome.
